For the interview that counts. Wherever you are. UCi2i

Interviewing that perfect candidate

Interviewing potential employees is extremely important and can often go through multiple rounds of interview stages. Unfortunately, the best candidates for your business needs, aren't always in the physical location you need them to be. Which often results in either the company choosing someone else, or spending a lot of money relocating employees.

With affordable and fully managed video conferencing and Virtual Meeting Rooms from UCi2i, you can offer any potential candidate, regardless of location, the opportunity to work for you remotely.

We all understand how important it is that, when interviewing for the job of your dreams over video, the quality is pin sharp and never fails. We also understand how important it is when interviewing remotely, how much better it is for both parties that the communication is face to face. Understand your candidates better than ever before by being able to read the visual cues and the reactions that you simply cannot gauge from audio-only communications.

Employee performance reviews and grievances

Virtual Meeting Rooms allow you to have face to face meetings with your employees instantly, with no need to schedule your conferences - making performance reviews and dealing quickly with grievances as efficient and productive as possible.

The high definition quality and instant desktop, application and content sharing, allow you to make faster decisions and collaborate productively - giving your HR team a valuable communication tool to use across the entire business, as well as externally with third parties.

Virtual Meeting Rooms are instantly accessible with no need to schedule your conferences and come with just one fixed price monthly subscription fee with all you can eat, unlimited usage - making it the affordable way to stay connected. Your globally dispersed HR teams can meet and collaborate anytime, creating an open and productive team culture for any type of organisation.
